

Looped In
Your Infinite
Gravity

1. The First Glance - "When Stars First Collided"

I saw you across the crowded night.
The world blurred soft, but you glowed bright.
In one brief glance, the stars aligned,
As if the heavens had designed.

Your eyes held stories untold, unknown,
A language meant for me alone.
No words exchanged, yet I could hear,
A pull that brought your soul near.

Was it chance, or was it fate,
That made our meeting feel so great?
Like rivers drawn to meet the sea,
It felt as though you were meant for me.

The air between us sparked with fire,
A silent song, a deep desire.
No script, no plan, no grand affair,
Just two lost souls who found each other there.

If love begins in moments small,
Then ours was the greatest of them all.
For when our eyes first dared to meet,
The earth stood still beneath our feet.

And though the years may change the skies,
I'll always see us through those eyes.
That fleeting glance, that silent spark,
Lit forever within my heart.

2. Strangers to Something More — "A Name That Felt Like Home"

I whispered you to the quiet of my thoughts,
A melody gentle, a spark alight.
It wasn't a word, it was something entire,
A rhythm that felt like it always was mine.

Like a warm breeze on a quiet shore,
A feeling so deep, I couldn't ignore.
It carried the pace of a heart at rest,
A place I had searched for, a love confessed.

Though we were strangers, you didn't seem new.
As if my soul had always known you.
Like the morning sun that wakes the skies,
Or the moonlight soft in a lover's eyes.

Your presence was calm, a hush, a song,
A place I could turn when the world felt wrong.
A touch so steady, a pull so sweet,
A promise whispered that we would meet.

Now when I think of that sacred sound,
It feels like a home my heart has found.
A thread that ties me forever to you,
A vow that began when love first grew.

Each time I say it, the feeling stays,
A word I'll carry through all my days.
For when I first spoke it, soft and true,
I knew that forever began with you.

3. A Quite Friendship - Between Laughter & silence

It started in moments, simple and small,
A quite glance, a smile that said it all.
Between the joke and stories, we'd share,
A bond began, subtle and rare.

Your smile, like morning sun, soft and bright,
A warmth that stayed through every night.
No need for words, no rush, no fear,
Just something comforting, always near.

Between the jokes and fleeting stares,
They lay a kindness that felt so rare.
Unspoken thoughts, yet understood,
A bond that deepened where silence stood.

No need for grand or spoken lines,
It grew in whispers, in subtle signs.
A friendship born something pure,
A gentle rhythm, quite and sure.

When I think back, it's all so clear,
The start of something I hold so dear.
For between the laughter and silence we knew,
I found the beginning of love with you.

4. Unspoken Shifts - "A Heartbeat in the Silence"

It started in whispers, soft and slow,
A feeling that only we seemed to know.
In the silence, something changed,
A quiet shift, a love unarranged.

Our eyes met, and something stirred,
A heartbeat racing, without a word.
Our gazes exchanged what words could not,
A spark igniting in that fleeting spot.

In the stillness, love found its place,
A gentle touch, a warm embrace.
No need to speak, the heart had found
A rhythm, a pulse, a love profound.

A shift so subtle, yet it grew,
In the spaces where our hearts flew.
Unseen, unnoticed, yet so true,
I felt my heart beginning to choose you.

And with every silent beat we share,
I know love's roots are planted there.
For in that quiet shift, so deep and right,
I found love's spark, soft as the night.

5. Unexpected Longing "The Ache I Didn't Expect"

I thought I knew the path we'd take,
Friends forever, no mistake.
Laughter shared, in endless flow,
No deeper bond, I thought I'd know.

But then it came, a quiet shift,
A longing deep, an unspoken rift.
Not love, not yet, but something more,
A whisper, knocking at my door.

In every glance, I start to see,
A part of you that calls to me.
Not friendship now, but something wide,
A tender ache I cannot hide.

The lines we crossed, now blurred with grace,
My heart, unsure, begins to race.
You never asked, you never knew,
That I was falling, falling too.

It's the ache I didn't expect,
A feeling light, with no regret.
For now, I'll smile, with hearts so bright,
Wondering if you'll feel it, too, tonight.

From tender ache to hopeful light,
A spark now grows with each new night.
For now, I'll hold it close and tight-
The joy that blooms in love's first light.

6. Whispering to the Skies "When I Told the Sky About You"

I whispered to the evening breeze,
A secret carried with such ease.
The sky, so wide, with stars so bright,
Held my words in the still of night.

I spoke of you, of all I knew,
Of dreams and moments, bright and true.
The world had spun, yet here I stand,
Revealing feelings, hand in hand.

The moon above, a witness bright,
Held my truth within the night.
Would you hear it, would you see,
The love that grew so silently?

The sky, a canvas, soft and wide,
As I confided, without pride.
Not knowing where these words would go,
But trusting they'd reach you below.

A confession made to the endless blue,
Not knowing if you'd feel it too.
But in that moment, I was free,
To share with the sky what you mean to me.

And when the sun begins to rise,
I'll wonder if you realize,
The feelings in the air that flew,
As I told the sky all about you.

7. First Date - "A Whisper Under the Stars"

It started with laughter, simple and free,
Two friends sharing moments, just you and me.
But something changed, quiet and true,
A spark between us that no one knew.

One evening, you asked, with a smile so shy,
"If we went on a date, would you give it a try?"
My heart skipped a beat, unsure and bright,
And in that moment, everything felt right.

We met beneath the stars, a cool evening breeze,
A friendship now blooming, with so much ease.
The conversation flowed, like we always had,
But something deeper stirred, something we both never had.

No pressure, no rush, just a simple cheer,
The joy of being close, of having you near.
With each shared smile, my heart did race,
As I saw the warmth on your face.

We walked and talked, no rush, no plan,
Just two souls discovering a new kind of span.
The laughter was still there, soft and free,
But now, I saw you in a new light, just you and me.

The moon watched as we shared a glance,
In that moment, it felt like a dance.
No words were needed, yet all was clear,
We were no longer just friends, love was near.

As the night ended, I knew it was true,
That our friendship had turned into something new.
And though we never spoke of love that night,
Dancing under the stars, everything felt right.

8. Falling Hard - "Where Gravity Meets Your Soul"

It wasn't a choice, it wasn't a plan,
It wasn't something I could understand.
Like the earth to the sun, the tide to the moon,
I found myself drawn to you too soon.

Your voice, a melody I couldn't ignore,
Each word, a key unlocking my door.
Every glance, a thread pulling tight,
Every touch, a spark in the quiet night.

I tried to resist, but love had its way,
Like gravity, constant, it made me stay.
The more I fought, the more I fell,
Into a world where only you dwell.

Your laughter, the rhythm I now breathe,
A song of love that will never leave.
Each moment with you, a quiet refrain,
Drawing me closer, through joy and pain.

Your soul was a magnet, pulling me in,
Breaking my walls, where love could begin.
It wasn't gentle, it wasn't slow,
It was a force I couldn't let go.

And now I'm here, helpless and free,
Caught in the pull of your gravity.
For where your soul and mine align,
Is a love that's endless, vast, divine.

9. A Love Like No Other — "Every Shade of Us"

Falling into you was just the start,
A pull so strong, it captured my heart.
But staying? That's where the magic lies,
In every moment love quietly ties.

We've stumbled, we've faltered, yet here we remain,
Through whispered joys and unspoken pain.
No perfect moments, no scripted lines,
Just a love that grows with the test of time.

You're my steady in the chaos we face,
My refuge, my rhythm, my safest place.
Through tempests and calm, we always find,
A way back to each other, heart and mind.

Your flaws, like mine, are pieces we own,
Each one a story, a truth we've shown.
In every scar, in every fear,
You hold me close, you keep me near.

We aren't the same, but together we fit,
Like moonlight and shadow, both equally lit.
For every flaw, there's beauty to see,
In every shade of us, there's harmony.

So here we stand, a story untold,
A love that's imperfect, yet richer than gold.
For in every trial, in every fuss,
We've built a love like no other every shade of us.

10. The First Fight – "Thunder Before the Calm"

It came like thunder, sharp and loud,
Words like lightning split the cloud.
A storm we didn't know would brew,
In the fragile space between me and you.

Your eyes, once warm, now held a chill,
My heart raced faster, against my will.
The silence after every word we threw,
Felt like a canyon we couldn't get through.

But even in anger, there was a thread,
A quiet love beneath the words we said.
For every hurt, there was a plea,
A desperate hope that you'd still see me.

The storm raged on, yet in its wake,
A trembling bond we couldn't forsake.
You reached for me, and I for you,
Two hearts still searching for what was true.

And then the calm, so soft, so clear,
Your whispered "sorry" pulled me near.
We found each other through the strife,
Rebuilding the bridge, reviving our life.

Now every fight is a lesson we learn,
A spark that fades, but never will burn.
For love is the calm after every storm,
A quiet rhythm that keeps us warm.

11. Dreaming Together – "Castles Built of Sunlight"

In the quiet hours when the world is still,
We weave our dreams with tender will.
Your hand in mine, our hearts take flight,
Building castles out of golden sunlight.

We sketch the walls with laughter and care,
Every brick a promise, each room a prayer.
The windows glow with hope's warm hue,
Framing a life where it's me and you.

We paint the sky with endless stars,
Charting paths to wherever we are.
No dream too small, no wish too grand,
With you beside me, I understand.

Through mornings of coffee, afternoons so sweet,
We share the tasks, the work, the beat.
Cooking together, cleaning side by side,
In every chore, love is our guide.

Even if storms someday cloud the sky,
Our sunlight castles will never die.
For they're not built of fleeting stone,
But of dreams we've shared, a love we've grown.

When the world may change, and the days grow cold,
Our love will stand, strong and bold.
For these castles of sunlight we'll always defend,
A love so pure, it will never end.

So here we stand, side by side,
With dreams of tomorrow, hearts open wide.
In castles of sunlight, love will reside,
A future together, forever our guide.

12. The Proposal – "The Moment Forever Began"

In a moment so still, the world held its breath,
As time whispered softly, putting fears to rest.
Your eyes met mine, with dreams untold,
A promise of forever, more precious than gold.

With trembling hands but a heart so sure,
You knelt in the silence, your love so pure.
The question lingered in the evening air,
A promise of life, of always, of care.

"I've dreamed of this moment, of asking you,"
You said, your voice steady, yet trembling too.
"Will you walk with me through every storm,
Be my shelter, my love, my haven warm?"

Tears kissed my cheeks as you spoke your heart,
In your every word, I saw a new start.
Not in the ring, but the way you cared,
In your gaze, a lifetime we shared.

I whispered "Yes," though it felt so small,
To the love that answered your heartfelt call.
We laughed, we cried; the world fell away,
In that one moment, love chose to stay.

Our love stood tall, against all tides,
Two souls entwined, nothing left to hide.
Forever began, not in gold or stone,
But in the way we made each other a home.

13. The Wedding – "A Thousand Promises in One Breath"

The day began with laughter and cheer,
A celebration of love, so pure and clear.
Under a canopy of flowers so bright,
Two hearts prepared to take their flight.

Your hand touched mine, steady and warm,
A promise of safety through life's storm.
The air was filled with a sacred song,
A vow to cherish, to where we belong.

"I promise to walk with you through it all,
Through life's grand moments and when we fall.
Together we'll build, together we'll grow,
With you, my love, my heart will always show."

Every step we took was a bond we tied,
Every word lifted our spirits high.

No jewels could match, no treasure compare,
To the love we felt in the vows we'd declare.

The world around us softly faded away,
It was just us, in love's bright display.
The union sealed in that golden glow,
A promise to nurture, to let love show.

In that moment, with hearts in tune,
Under the stars and a crescent moon,
A thousand promises bloomed anew,
Of a love eternal, deep, and true.

14. The Honeymoon Phase - "Every Morning, Every Sunrise"

Each morning, a canvas, fresh and bright,
Every sunrise, painting love's light.
Your laughter, a melody, soft and clear,
A song I wake to, drawing you near.

In the warmth of dawn, your face I see,
A reflection of joy, wild and free.
I pull you close, in the soft morning glow,
Your lips on mine, in kisses slow.

Wrapped in your arms, the world fades away,
In soft cuddles, we linger and sway.
The mornings are ours, full of grace,
As I trace the love upon your face.

Breakfasts shared in golden rays,
Chasing kisses through the quiet haze.

Your touch ignites a tender flame,
Every caress, whispering my name.

The nights may fade, but mornings glow,
In every sunrise, our love will grow.
With you, my darling, I have found my place,
In your arms, I'll forever embrace.

Together we bloom, in this love so true,
Each day's discovery, something new.
In your eyes, the world feels wide,
My heart, my home, forever your side.

15. Through Trials - "When Love Held the Weight"

In the quiet dark, when storms would rage,
We stood side by side, through every page.
Through storms of doubt, through moments of fear,
Your love whispered softly, "I'm always here."

Through every tear, through every fight,
You held me close, through endless nights.
When the world felt heavy, and hearts would break,
It was your love that gave me strength to take.

When the rain poured down, the winds howled strong,
We found comfort in each other, all along.
Through the weight of it all, love held us tight,
Turning the darkest days into light.

Through every battle, we learned to trust,
In a bond that grew fierce, pure, and just.
No matter the struggle, no matter the pain,
Love was our anchor, through joy and strain.

Through trials faced, through wounds we healed,
Our love, unwavering, was the shield.
In every battle, we stood as one,
Under the storm, but with the rising sun.

And as the storm clouds slowly began to part,
We saw the sun rise, heart to heart.
For love, through trials, became the light,
That guided us through the darkest night.

16. Everyday Love - "A Symphony in Small Things"

Every morning starts the same,
Yet somehow, it feels like a new game.
You pour the coffee, I toast the bread,
In these moments, so much is said.

The clink of plates, the rhythm of chores,
A symphony played behind closed doors.
Not grand gestures or sweeping tales,
But tiny anchors where love prevails.

The way you wait while I tie my shoe,
A silent promise: "I'll walk with you."
The mess of the kitchen, the clutter we clear,
Echoes of love in every chore here.

The shared silence, the gentle ease,
In love's language, no need to please.
A grocery run, a walk through the park,
Even the mundane carries a spark.

The way we argue over which show to play,
Or laugh at jokes we've heard every day.
The shared silence at the end of the night,
Knowing together, we're always right.

No roses, no stages, no grand decree,
Just you and me, where love feels free.
In each tiny gesture, our hearts take wing,
Living our symphony in the smallest of things.

17. Across the Distance - The Silence Between Heartbeats

We packed our bags, said our goodbyes,
Chasing dreams beneath different skies.
A new city, a fresh start ahead,
But your presence lingers in every thread.

In the hustle of the day, in the rush of the crowd,
I find myself longing, yet I stay proud.
Though we're miles apart, each step feels the same,
Because in my heart, I whisper your name.

The day feels hollow, the night too long,
Without your presence, nothing feels strong.
In every shadow, I search for your face,
In every silence, I long for your embrace.

Through laughter, through tears,
Through moments that stretch across the years,
I'll be with you, in every smile, in every sigh,
Like a soft whisper, never saying goodbye.

Distance may come, but love won't fade,
In every memory, a promise is made.
I may not always be there to light your way,
But in your heart, I stay, day after day.

So when life feels uncertain, and paths unclear,
Know that my love is always near.
It's not about presence, but where we both belong,
In each other's hearts, forever strong.

18. “Turning Pages Together”

We met as strangers, both a little shy,
But in your eyes, I found the reason why.
Every word we spoke, every quiet touch,
We built a story that meant so much.

From the very first kiss, the sparks would fly,
In the silence, our hearts couldn't lie.
We turned the pages with hands so sure,
Knowing our love would always endure.

The road hasn't always been straight and wide,
But in every moment, I had you by my side.
Through the trials, through the joy, through the pain,
We wrote a love that would always remain.

The mornings we wake, wrapped in your embrace,
The feeling of love, no one can replace.
In every glance, in every sigh,
You're my story, the reason I fly.

We built a life with each passing page,
A beautiful love that can never age.
In the chapters we write, in the story we share,
I find more of you, and I'll always care.

Turning the pages, we'll keep writing strong,
In this love, we both belong.
With every word, with every phrase,
We'll turn the pages, together always.

19. Building a Life Together - "Roots Beneath the Stars"

We planted dreams in soil so deep,
Beneath the stars, where secrets sleep.
Hand in hand, we built our world,
With love's foundation, flags unfurled.

Every stone we placed with care,
Every dream we dared to share.
A love that grows with every season,
Bound by trust, and the same reason.

Through every trial, we stood tall,
A love that never feared to fall.
In the quiet spaces, in the loud,
We rise above, we stand proud.

Together, we are fire and flame,
Two hearts, one soul, one endless aim.
Our love is built with endless fire,
And all our dreams climb higher and higher.

Beneath the stars, we find our way,
Through every night and every day.
The world is ours, both wide and free,
Our roots, our dreams, our destiny.

With you, my love, I am whole,
In your arms, I've found my soul.
We've built a life beyond the stars,
Together, forever, no matter how far.

20. Through the Years - "In the Seasons of Us"

Through the years, we've sailed as one,
Under the same moon, beneath the same sun.
In every season, love's song was clear,
A melody we crafted, year by year.

In the early days, we were just two hearts,
Learning to dance, learning the parts.
But as time moved on, we grew, we changed,
Our love adapted, never estranged.

Through the years, we learned to fight,
Not against each other, but for what's right.
In every argument, in every tear,
We found a love that's crystal clear.

From the first kiss to the late-night talks,
We've built our dreams with whispered walks.
Through joy, through tears, we've held each other near,
Our love growing stronger with each passing year.

Through the early days of uncertain dreams,
To nights where everything felt like a gleam,
We've learned to laugh, to cry, to hold,
In each other's arms, we've found our gold.

With every dream, with every wish,
I see our future, tender and rich.
Through every change, we've grown our love,
A gift we share, sent from above.

So here we stand, side by side,
With love as our anchor, and dreams as our guide.
Through every season, every year,
With you, my love, there's nothing to fear.

21. Until the End - "Your Hand, My Forever"

In twilight's glow, your hand in mine,
A promise made, a sacred line.
Through joy, through pain, through all we've known,
You've been my anchor, I've never been alone.

Our love has grown through trials and tide,
In every storm, you've been my guide.
Your touch, my steady ground, my peace,
In your arms, all troubles cease.

A glance from you, the world stands still,
A moment caught, a timeless thrill.
Your eyes tell stories, deep and true,
Of all we've lived and all we've been through.

Your kisses linger, soft and sweet,
Reminding me of all we've shared, complete.
From whispered dreams to skies that roar,
We built a life with love at its core.

Our children's laughter marks our days,
Their smiles a mirror of love's gentle ways.
We've danced in light, kissed in the rain,
Held each other through joy and pain.

As time unfolds, and dreams take flight,
We find new sparks in every night.
Your hand in mine, through joy and strife,
My forever, my love, my life.

THE END

Epilogue — "An Endless Autumn"

And so, we write, in pages and stars,
In quiet mornings and late-night bars.
Through every season, every new dawn,
Our love, like autumn, forever drawn.

Leaves may fall and skies may grey,
Yet in your arms, I always stay.
An endless autumn, soft and bright,
Where every goodbye turns into light.

For in each chapter, in every line,
I've found my forever, and you've found mine.
Together we journey, hand in hand,
Through every colour, every land.

So let the seasons turn and the years unfold,
Our story will echo, brave and bold.
In this love — deep, unbound, and true —
I found my home, my heart, my you.